A modern gate with a wood-grain finish and stainless steel accents. The gate is closed and features two large, horizontal stainless steel panels, one above and one below the center. The wood-grain panels are flanked by vertical stainless steel strips. The gate is set against a concrete wall with a decorative top edge. In the background, a building with a curved balcony and glass railing is visible. The ground in front of the gate is paved with light-colored tiles in a diamond pattern.
